HOW WILL GST AFFECT PRIZEMONEY?

"If you are registered or are required to be registered for GST, prize money you receive in the course of your business will be subject to GST. You will be required to account for GST on the basis that prize money is part of your business." – Australian Taxation Office.

A GST registered owner/competitor needs to notify the Show Horse Council of Australasia Inc. of registration for GST and supply his/her ABN. Should this owner/competitor win prize money exclusive of GST the Council will add the 10% GST to the prize money. Should the value of prize money (exclusive of GST) received by this owner/competitor exceed $50 the owner/competitor must supply the Council a tax invoice. If the value of prize money received by this owner/competitor is $50 or less the owner/competitor shall provide documentary evidence of receipt of that prize money paid. The registered owner/competitor will need to account for the prize money and GST received.

GST will not be added to prize money if the winning owner/competitor is not GST registered, as this person does not pay GST on prize money.

If a prize money winning owner/competitor does not quote his/her ABN or provide a statement to the Council indicating his/her equestrian activity is a hobby, the Council must withhold 48.5% of the prize money payable.

A non-monetary prize in the form of a symbolic recognition of achievement (such as a medal, ribbon, trophy or similar prize) is not consideration for the winner's participation if the prize is purely symbolic, having no value other than its personal or sentimental value to the winner. The ATO ruling considers that such prize has a GST inclusive market value of nil and as such, it will not add to the price of the supply of the winner's participation.

An exception to this is a medal, ribbon, trophy or similar prize that has a market value based on an intrinsic quality, such as content of valuable metal or gems, quality of artistic design or craftsmanship or uniqueness. A prize with a market value based on these characteristics represents more than merely a symbolic recognition of the winner's achievements and its market value is indicated in the price of the supply of the winner's participation.

A non-monetary prize that is designed for a practical use is not a mere symbol of recognition. For example, a prize of a crystal decanter, a computer or an item of sporting equipment has a market value that is included in the price of supply of the winner's participation even though it may be described by an event holder as a "trophy".

A GST registered winner of an event where the "trophy" has a market value has a GST liability for 1/11th of that prize.
